Umrao, a mobile clothing recently relocated to Hijrat Center. Specializing in the art of assembling wearable items, Umrao combines utilized materials from both bodies and objects. This adaptation became necessary due to the discontinuation of mass-produced clothing materials in 2044, posing challenges for the general populace. Umrao's approach involves the refurbishment of pre-owned materials. Leveraging a team of skilled laborers, they efficiently repurpose outdated resources into new garments for personal use. This pragmatic process ensures the continued availability of clothing in a world marked by the scarcity of traditional fabric manufacturing.
